

Mom Most Traveled

Creating a Peaceable Kingdom With Board Games

My 3-year-old niece is staying with us for the summer, and the home front is anything but peaceful with 2 three-year-olds and a 6-year-old.

Seriously, do we have to fight over what color cup the water is served in?

Anyway.

In order to avoid a nervous breakdown (mine, not theirs), I'm up for anything that encourages harmony.

Such as? A cooperative board game. "Cooperative" means that no one wins, and no one loses, we all strive toward a common goal.

In Count Your Chickens!, 2 to 4 players ages 3+ help Mother Hen collect her chicks and bring them back to the coop.

Count Your Chickens!™ is stress-free, and a good way to practice counting and cooperation.

Estimated time to complete a game is about 15 minutes.

Count Your Chickens! was the 2011 Creative Child Game of the Year!

Learn more at <http://www.peaceablekingdom.com/>