Peaceable Kingdom Games Review and Giveaway

When I was growing up, my family never had a special time where we could all get together and do something fun. Everyone was so busy going their separate ways that we never stopped once to just enjoy being together. I always told myself when I grew up, I wouldn't do this with my family. I always love to set a time to do something special for a day. Whether it's playing a game or going on a picnic, I love to spend as much time with my family as possible. One of my favorite things to do is play board games. But most of them make you split off into teams and it's all about who wins. Well, with Peaceable Kingdom, they make cooperative games where the point to the game is to have fun and learn, not win. We got to review a wonderful game named Count Your Chickens and we really enjoyed it. The game is very simple to play, even for a 3 year old. Mary turns 4 this year, but since she loves to count so much, I thought this would be perfect for her. Plus, there is no reading in this game at all, just counting pictures. The point of the game is to spin the wheel and move the baby chickens to the spot on the board that you landed on. The game is over when you get all the baby chickens back to the hen house. Overall we had a lot of fun playing it. Mary loves her new game, and she loves to find the pictures to move her baby chickens to. I am very impressed with the games too. Peaceable Kingdom is a great company that is putting family time back into our lives.
